BESIDES the appeal from Pennsylvania, Wheeling may have appeals from West Virginia localities of which she is the main reliance.

The State of Pennsylvania is taking hold with vim. According to a much accepted theory, government has no business with these calamities.

One little baby floated down on the bosom of the Conemaugh flood and was case. rescued from his cradle. A special interest will attach to the career of this latest Moses in the bullrushes.

It is early to speculate on the rebuilding of Johnstown, but already it is feared that the Cambria Iron Company may not rebuild there if at all. That company was the life of Johnstown.

The Valley of the Shadow of Death.
The known loss of life in the Conemaugh Valley is so great that a few hundreds more would scarcely add to the horror. A life is a life, and every life is precious, but there is a point beyond which the imagination grasps no more and sympathetic hearts can feel no sharper pang. To this it has come in the awful history of the greatest loss of life in modern times.

If the estimate of the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, a careful man on the spot, be nearly accurate, from a fourth to a half more persons lost their lives in a few moments than were actually killed in the three deads (Aphtin).

Manufacturer sees but little ahead that is cheering. It says:

The pool that the Western Out Nail Association has maintained has practically gone to pieces by the action suspending the 10 cent forfeit on every keg of nails sold by any mill over the amount of production allowed to it. And the Wheeling papers are discussing the future. They concede that the trouble is the wire nail and that the problem is to make a cut nail that in lightness shall compete with the wire nail, but how this will remody the depression does not appear, for if we understand the situation the wire nail business is overdone also; so that what the cut nail business takes from the wire nail in the situation the wire nail business for very done also; so that what the cut nail business takes from the wire nail mills will depress that industry still further, and reflexly the cut nail. There seems no relief that can be permanent until the demand grows up to the capacity.

In reply to the above closing remarks of the Meanufacturer seems that in the content of the content of the content of the following officers for the ensuing death of the following officers for the ensuing Masonic vear: John C. In reply to the above closing remarks of the Manufacturer we have only this to say, that waiting for the consumption of nails to grow up to the producing capacity of the mills is likely to be a costly that has lost its supremacy, and only by applying this force in an increasing deee can they make their present nall impele with an article that gives more alls to the pound. They force the market, as they imagine, only for the time being, expecting to recoup themselves at a later day—a day which the ex-perience of the last two years shows plainly enough is not coming to them. If the cut pail mills were the private property of a few individuals they would be mausged differently. A nail that is wanted would be produced at a price of responsibility for the present lamentable situation, nor for the energetic re-medies needed to protect stockholders

There was no appropriation and no precedent. The Secretary of War established the precedent and looked to Congress for the appropriation. A committee composed of Mayor C. W. Seabright, William Ellingham, Hulliten Quarrier, Julius Pollock and C. F.

The time is not so far in the past as to be beyond recollection when the cut nail trade was one of the best paying laranches of the iron industry. Today it is one of the worst. The productive capacity of the country is largely in excess of any present, or, indeed, any prospective demand.

Washington, D. C., May 31 .- An incessant rain which has been falling all day prevented General Goff and Mr. day prevented General Goff and Mr. Atkinson from doing much running around to-day, although they put in some time at the departments. Mr. Atkinson spent a few hours in the Pension Bureau and succeeded in getting several persons' cases allowed. One of his constituents was granted an increase in his pension which carries with it nearly $2.500 arrears. Capt. W. W. Frank McDermott, of Wheeling, has been appointed to a good position in the Government Printing Office. Several other West Virgioians will be taken care of in that establishment.
Postmaster Cowden advised Mr. Atkinson by telegraph to-day that Mr. Robert Simpson, the outgoing postmaster at Wheeling, refused to turn the Wheeling postoffice over to him because he had received no official notification of his removal. Mr. Atkinson called on First Assistant Postmaster General Clarkson and laid the matter before him. Colonel Clarkson at once sent a telegram to Mr. Simpson, informing him that an official notification of his removal was not necessary, and instructing him to turn the office over to Mr. Cowden immediately upon the presentation of his commission.

Louis Hildebrand was brought into court and sentenced to be imprisoned in the penitentiary for the term of two years and four months, the motion for a new trial having been denied. The prisoner was given credit for the eight months he has spent in jall, by the request of the jury finding him guilty.

Jennie Randall, charged with the robbery of Richard Allen, of Marshall county, and convicted some time ago, was then brought in, and the motion for a new trial denied. The prisoner was sentenced to be confined in the pensitentiary for the term of two years, the court stating, in passing sentence, that it would make the sentence as light as possible.

Richard Forsythe was not sentenced, the motion for a new trial in his case, not having been disposed of.

In Part II of the Circuit Court, Judge Campbell, Saturday the cases of William Craig, William Burkell and Charles Bischoff vs. the P. C. & &t. L. railroad company were dismissed, defendent recovering $50 damages and costs in each case,
